demands of a bold, exciting future...

As we watch the huge machines scoop out heaps of dirt, as we note with pride the slow but steady progress of the steel framework, we realize that 1960-61 is the last year we shall occupy our present building.

During the long period that this building has stood, it has served its purpose well. Nearly three thousand students have passed through its doors to become the useful citizens of today. But no longer is this structure adequate; now a larger and more modern Fleming must be built to meet our needs.

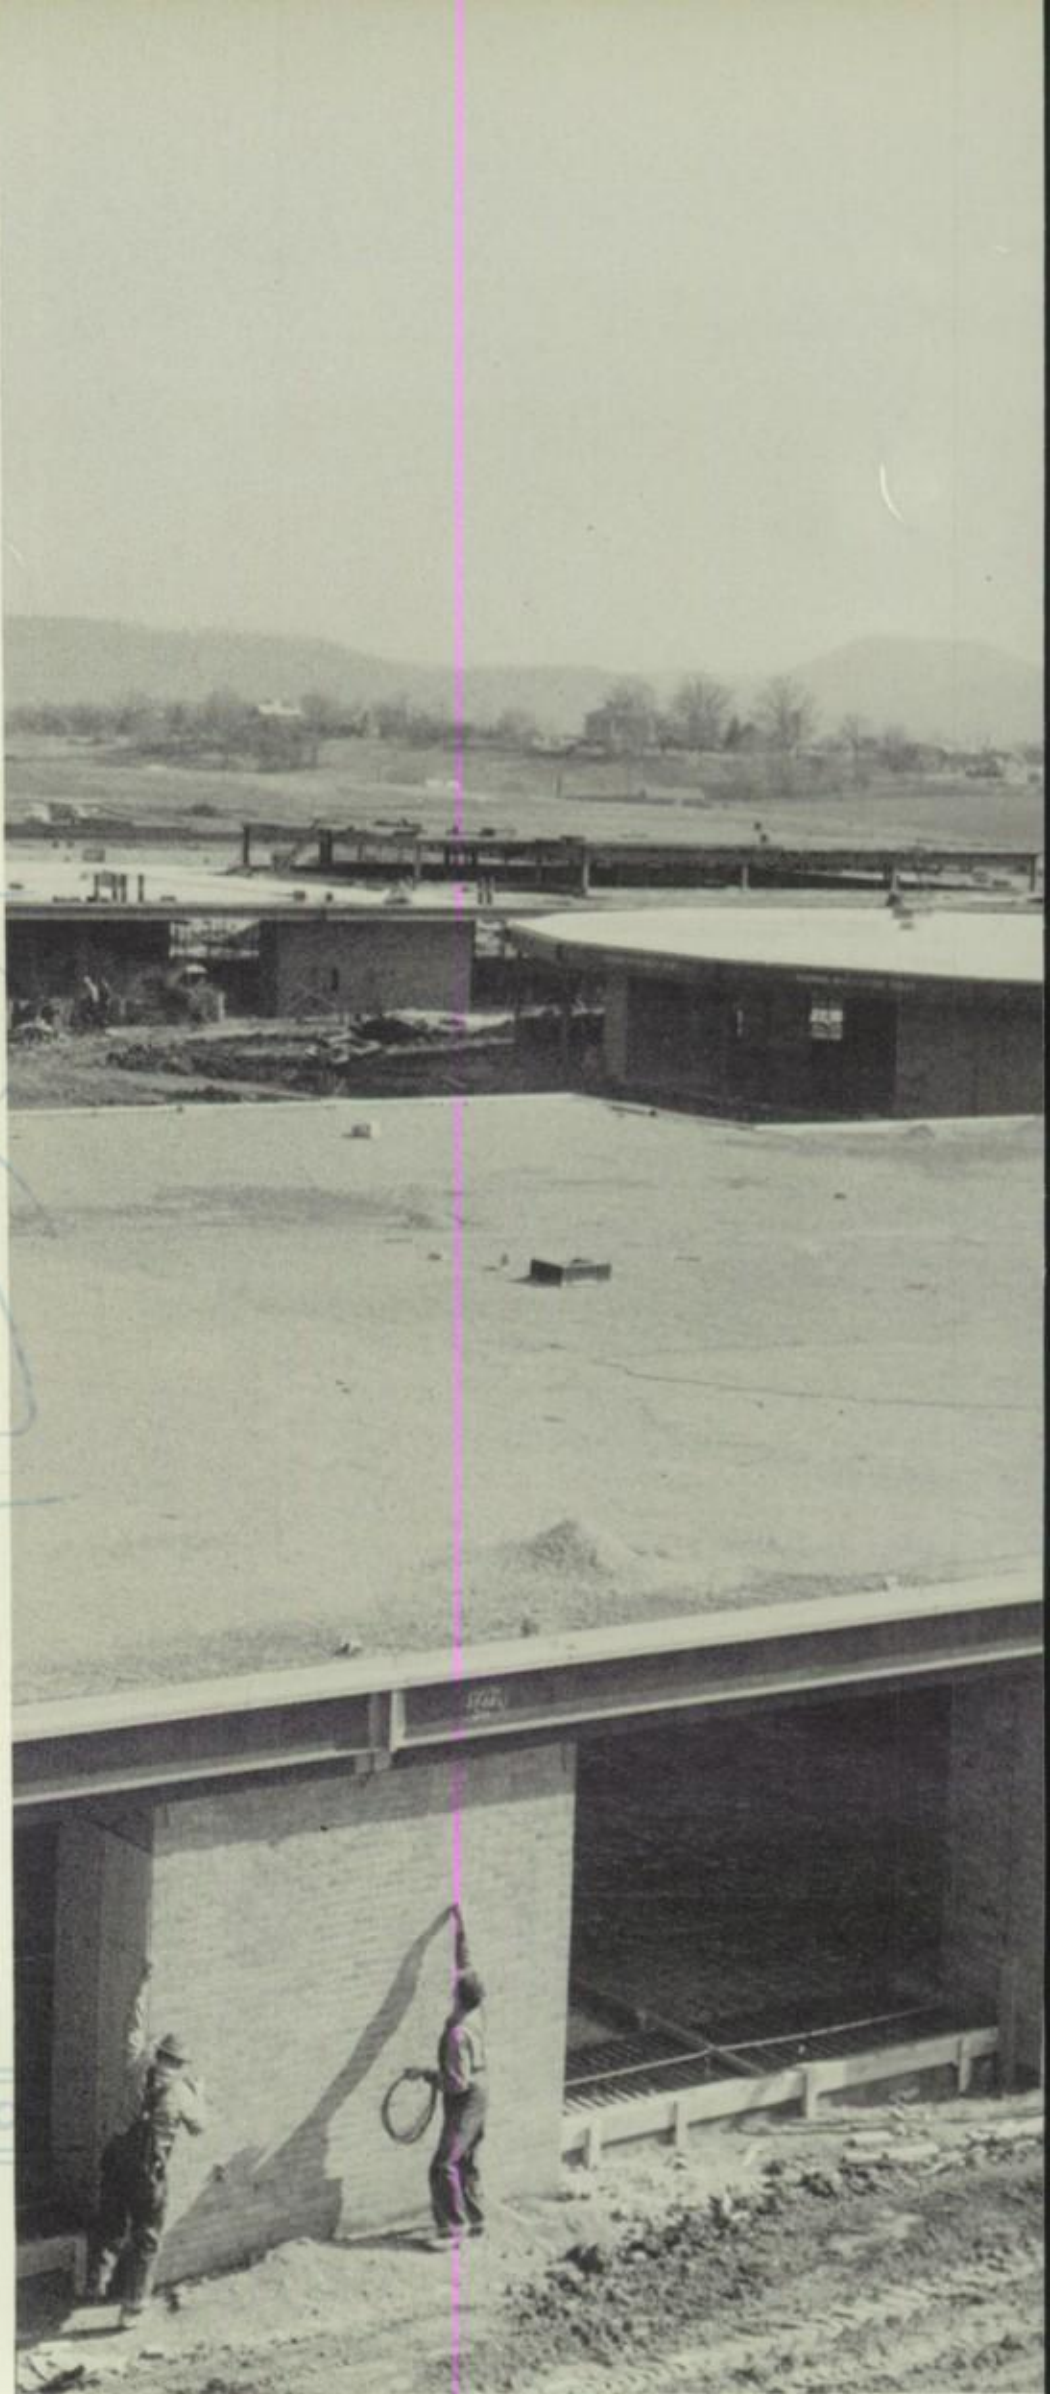

Our lives as students follow much the same pattern. Each year our accomplishments, our growth, our ideas are sufficient for that particular stage of our development. Yet, like the "Chambered Nautilus" we must continue to build "more stately mansions".

The workers erect the steel and lay the brick that will house our new school. We read the texts and write the papers that will broaden our knowledge. Whether workers or students, our task is a common one. We are building.

We dedicate a book...

He dedicates his life

No one has watched with keener interest the building of the new Fleming than one who has been for seventeen years associated with the old. In that time his department has grown from a tiny room which also housed the cafeteria to larger quarters better able to accommodate the number of students who have found in his authoritative direction development of skills and talents that they might never have used.

Quiet and unassuming, he makes no claim to fame for the help he has given to the boys who have come under his influence; but because his interest goes beyond teaching them to handle tools and showing them the techniques of drafting, this influence proves to be a lasting one.

With deep gratitude and affection we dedicate this 1961 edition of the Colonel to our instructor in mechanical drawing and industrial arts, Mr. Donald G. Baker.

Mr. Baker enjoys listening to his tape recorder from his favorite arm chair.

Mr. Baker explains problem to his mechanical drawing class.

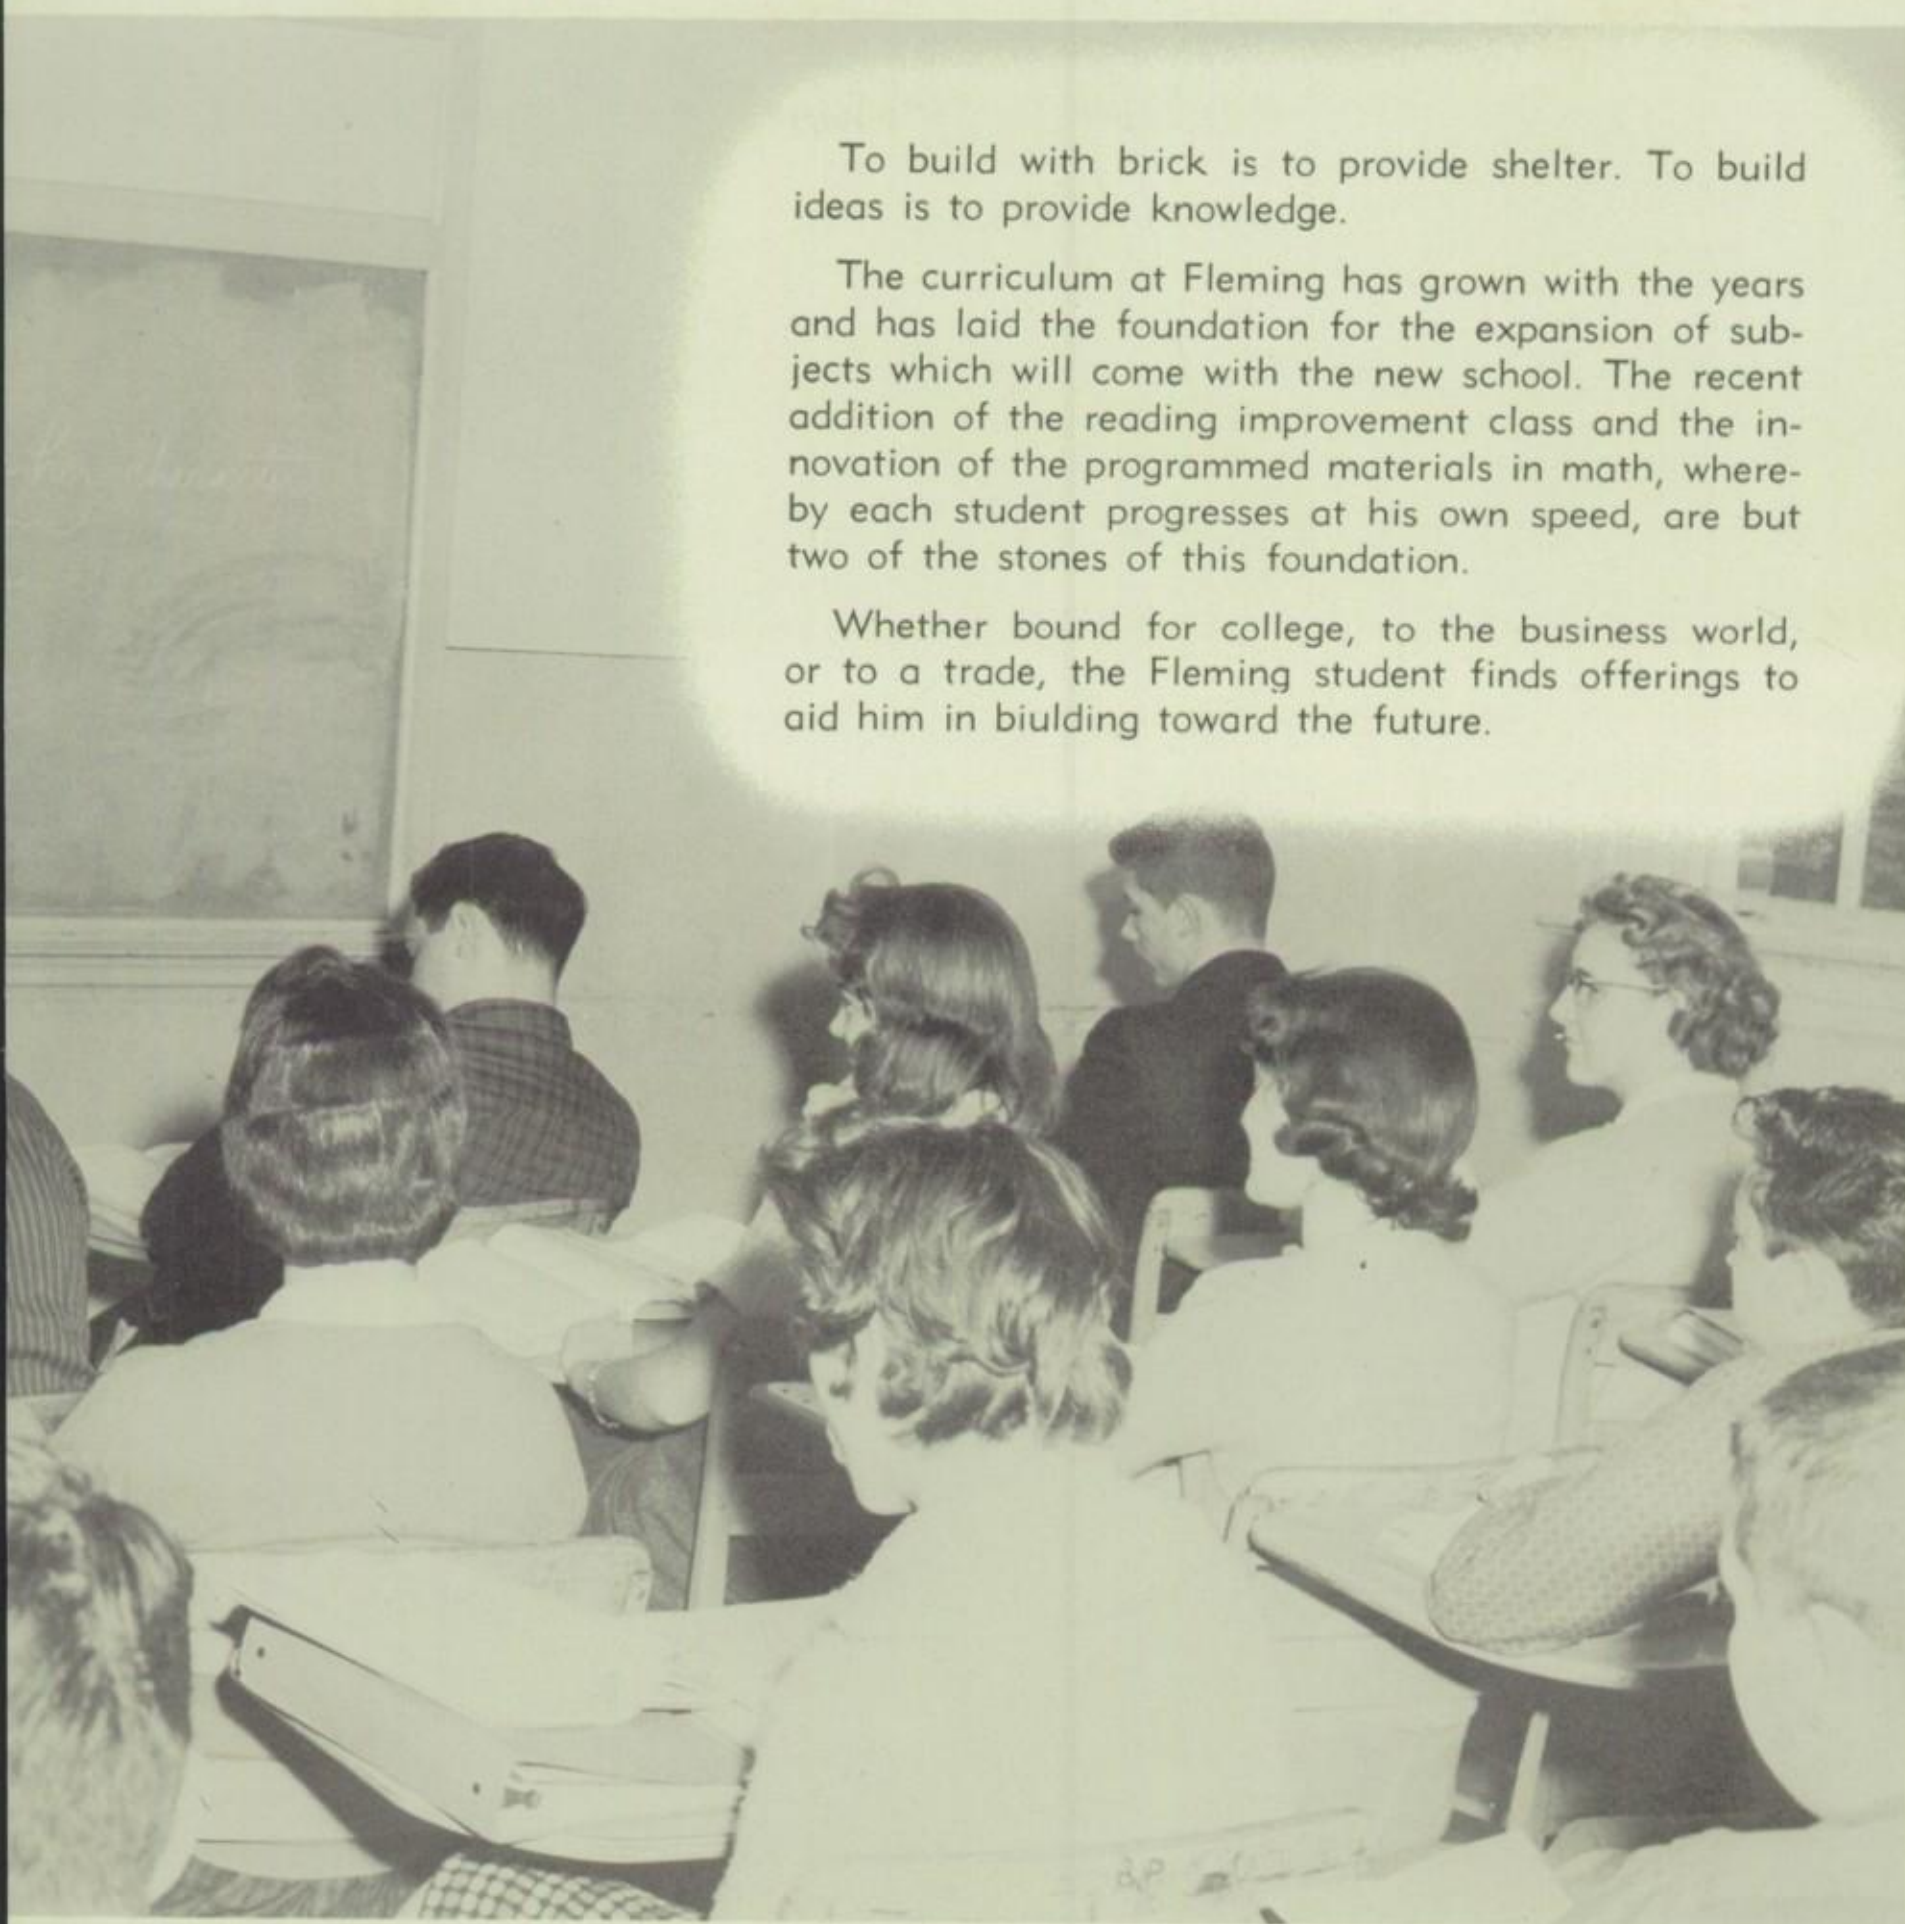

Building In Wisdom Through....

CURRICULAR

To build with brick is to provide shelter. To build ideas is to provide knowledge.

The curriculum at Fleming has grown with the years and has laid the foundation for the expansion of subjects which will come with the new school. The recent addition of the reading improvement class and the innovation of the programmed materials in math, whereby each student progresses at his own speed, are but two of the stones of this foundation.

Whether bound for college, to the business world, or to a trade, the Fleming student finds offerings to aid him in building toward the future.

ACTIVITIES

Grammar Teaches Self-expression

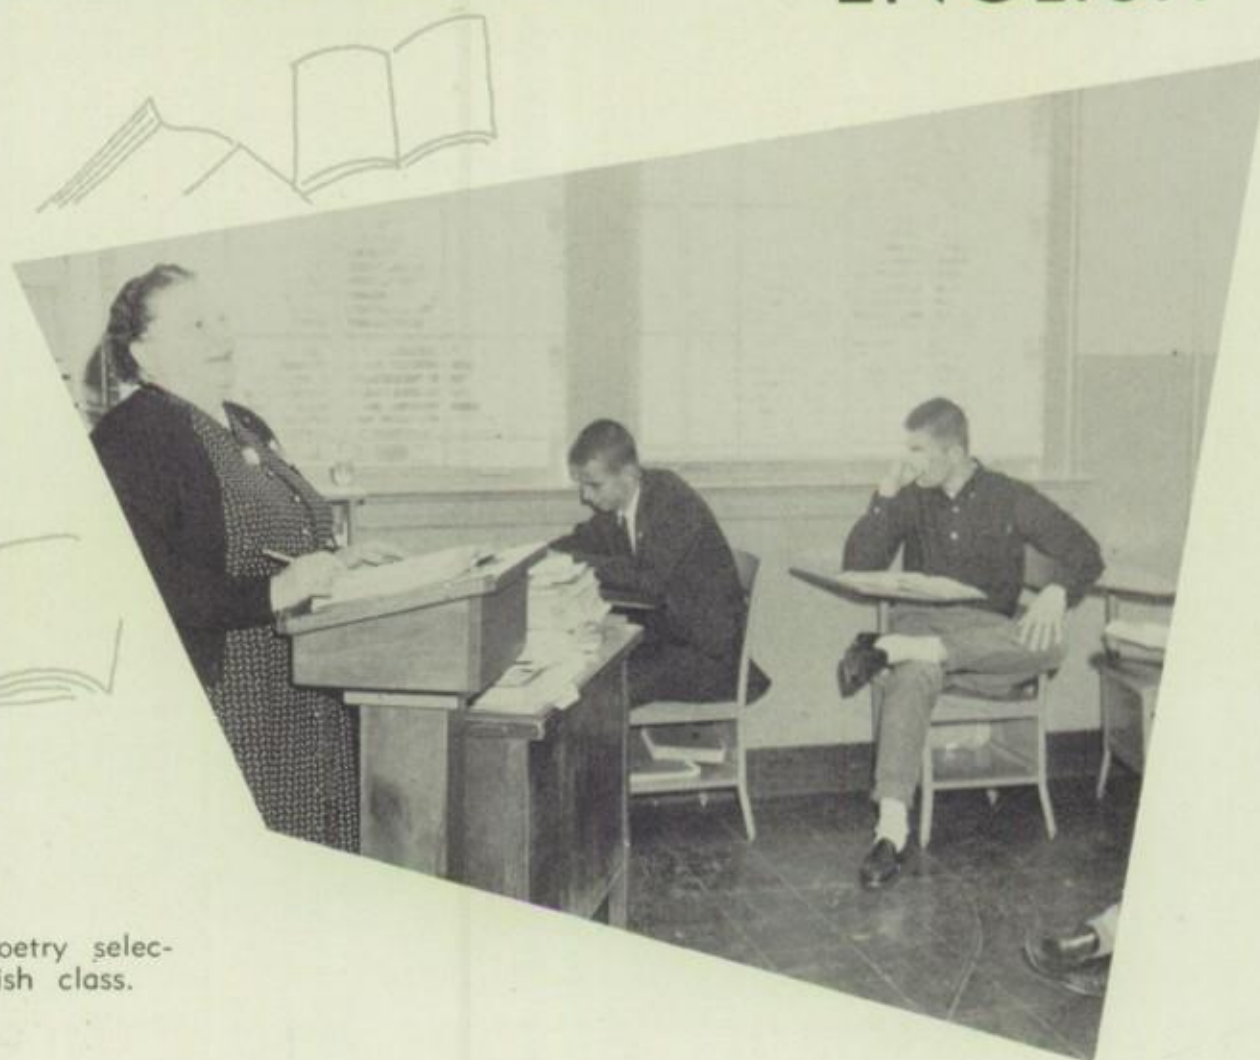

Wanda Robertson explains diagrammed sentence to Susan Jackovitch, JoAnn Dillard, and others in Mrs. Radford's eighth grade English class.

Because of its importance in every field, English is a required course throughout our high school careers. Fleming offers instruction at levels ranging from the basic concept of the parts of speech to enriching experiences in the world's memorable literature and the intricacies of poetic expression.

ENGLISH

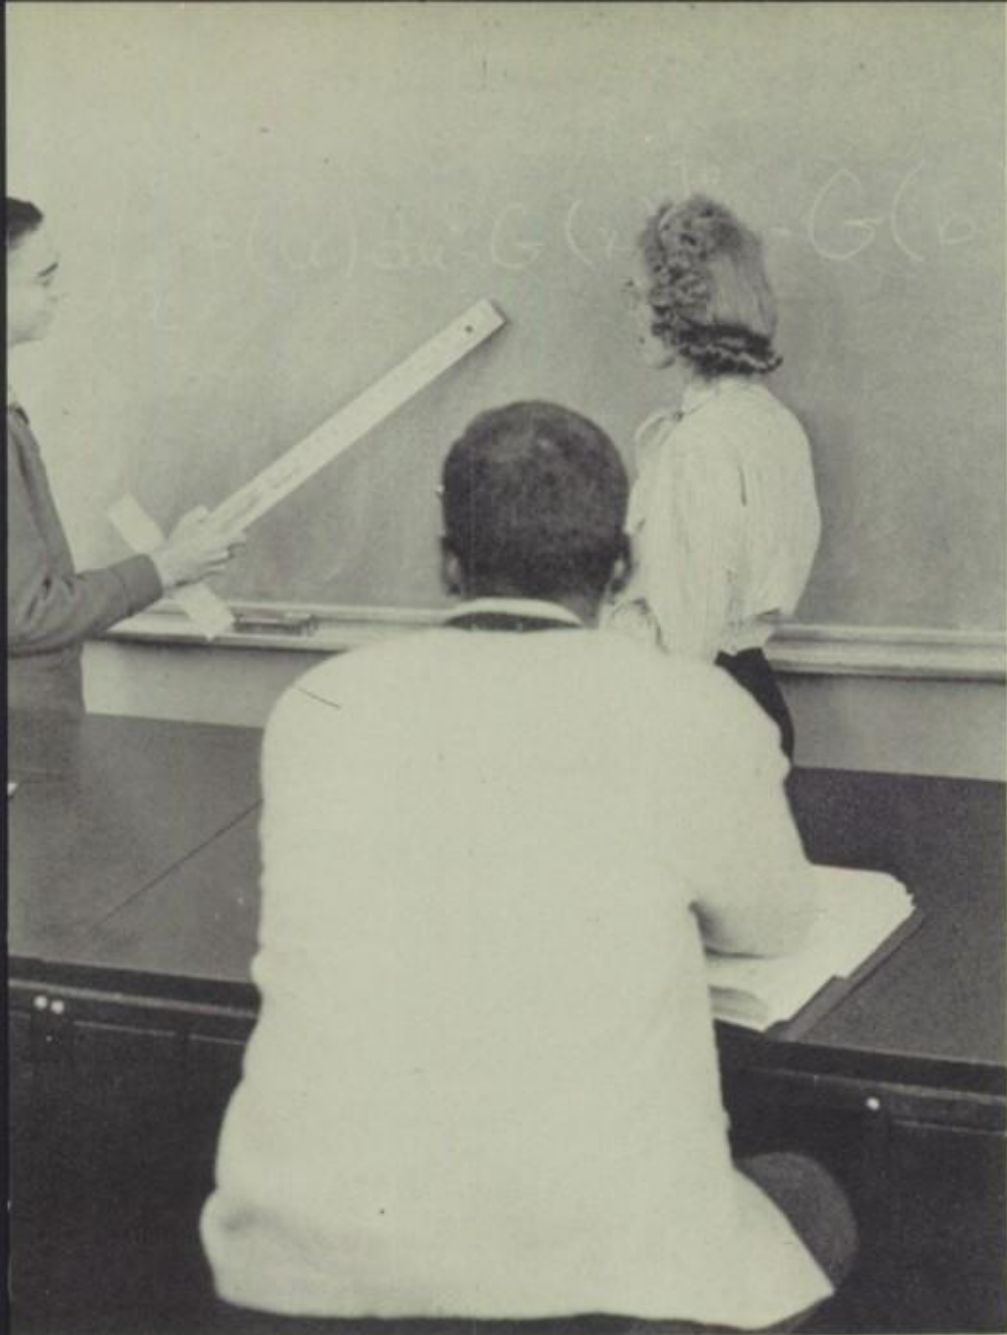

Mrs. Loomis reads a poetry selection to her senior English class.

Problems Stimulate Thinking

"Programmed textbooks" enable trigonometry students Paul Robinson and Deanna Martin to work at their individual rates.

This year Fleming advanced its mathematics program by undertaking experiments with programmed texts, now being used by only five American cities, in the fields of algebra, trigonometry, solid geometry, and calculus. The probability of establishing more accelerated classes was increased by the success of the initial attempt.

Tommy Powell explains calculus problem to Brenda Poindexter.

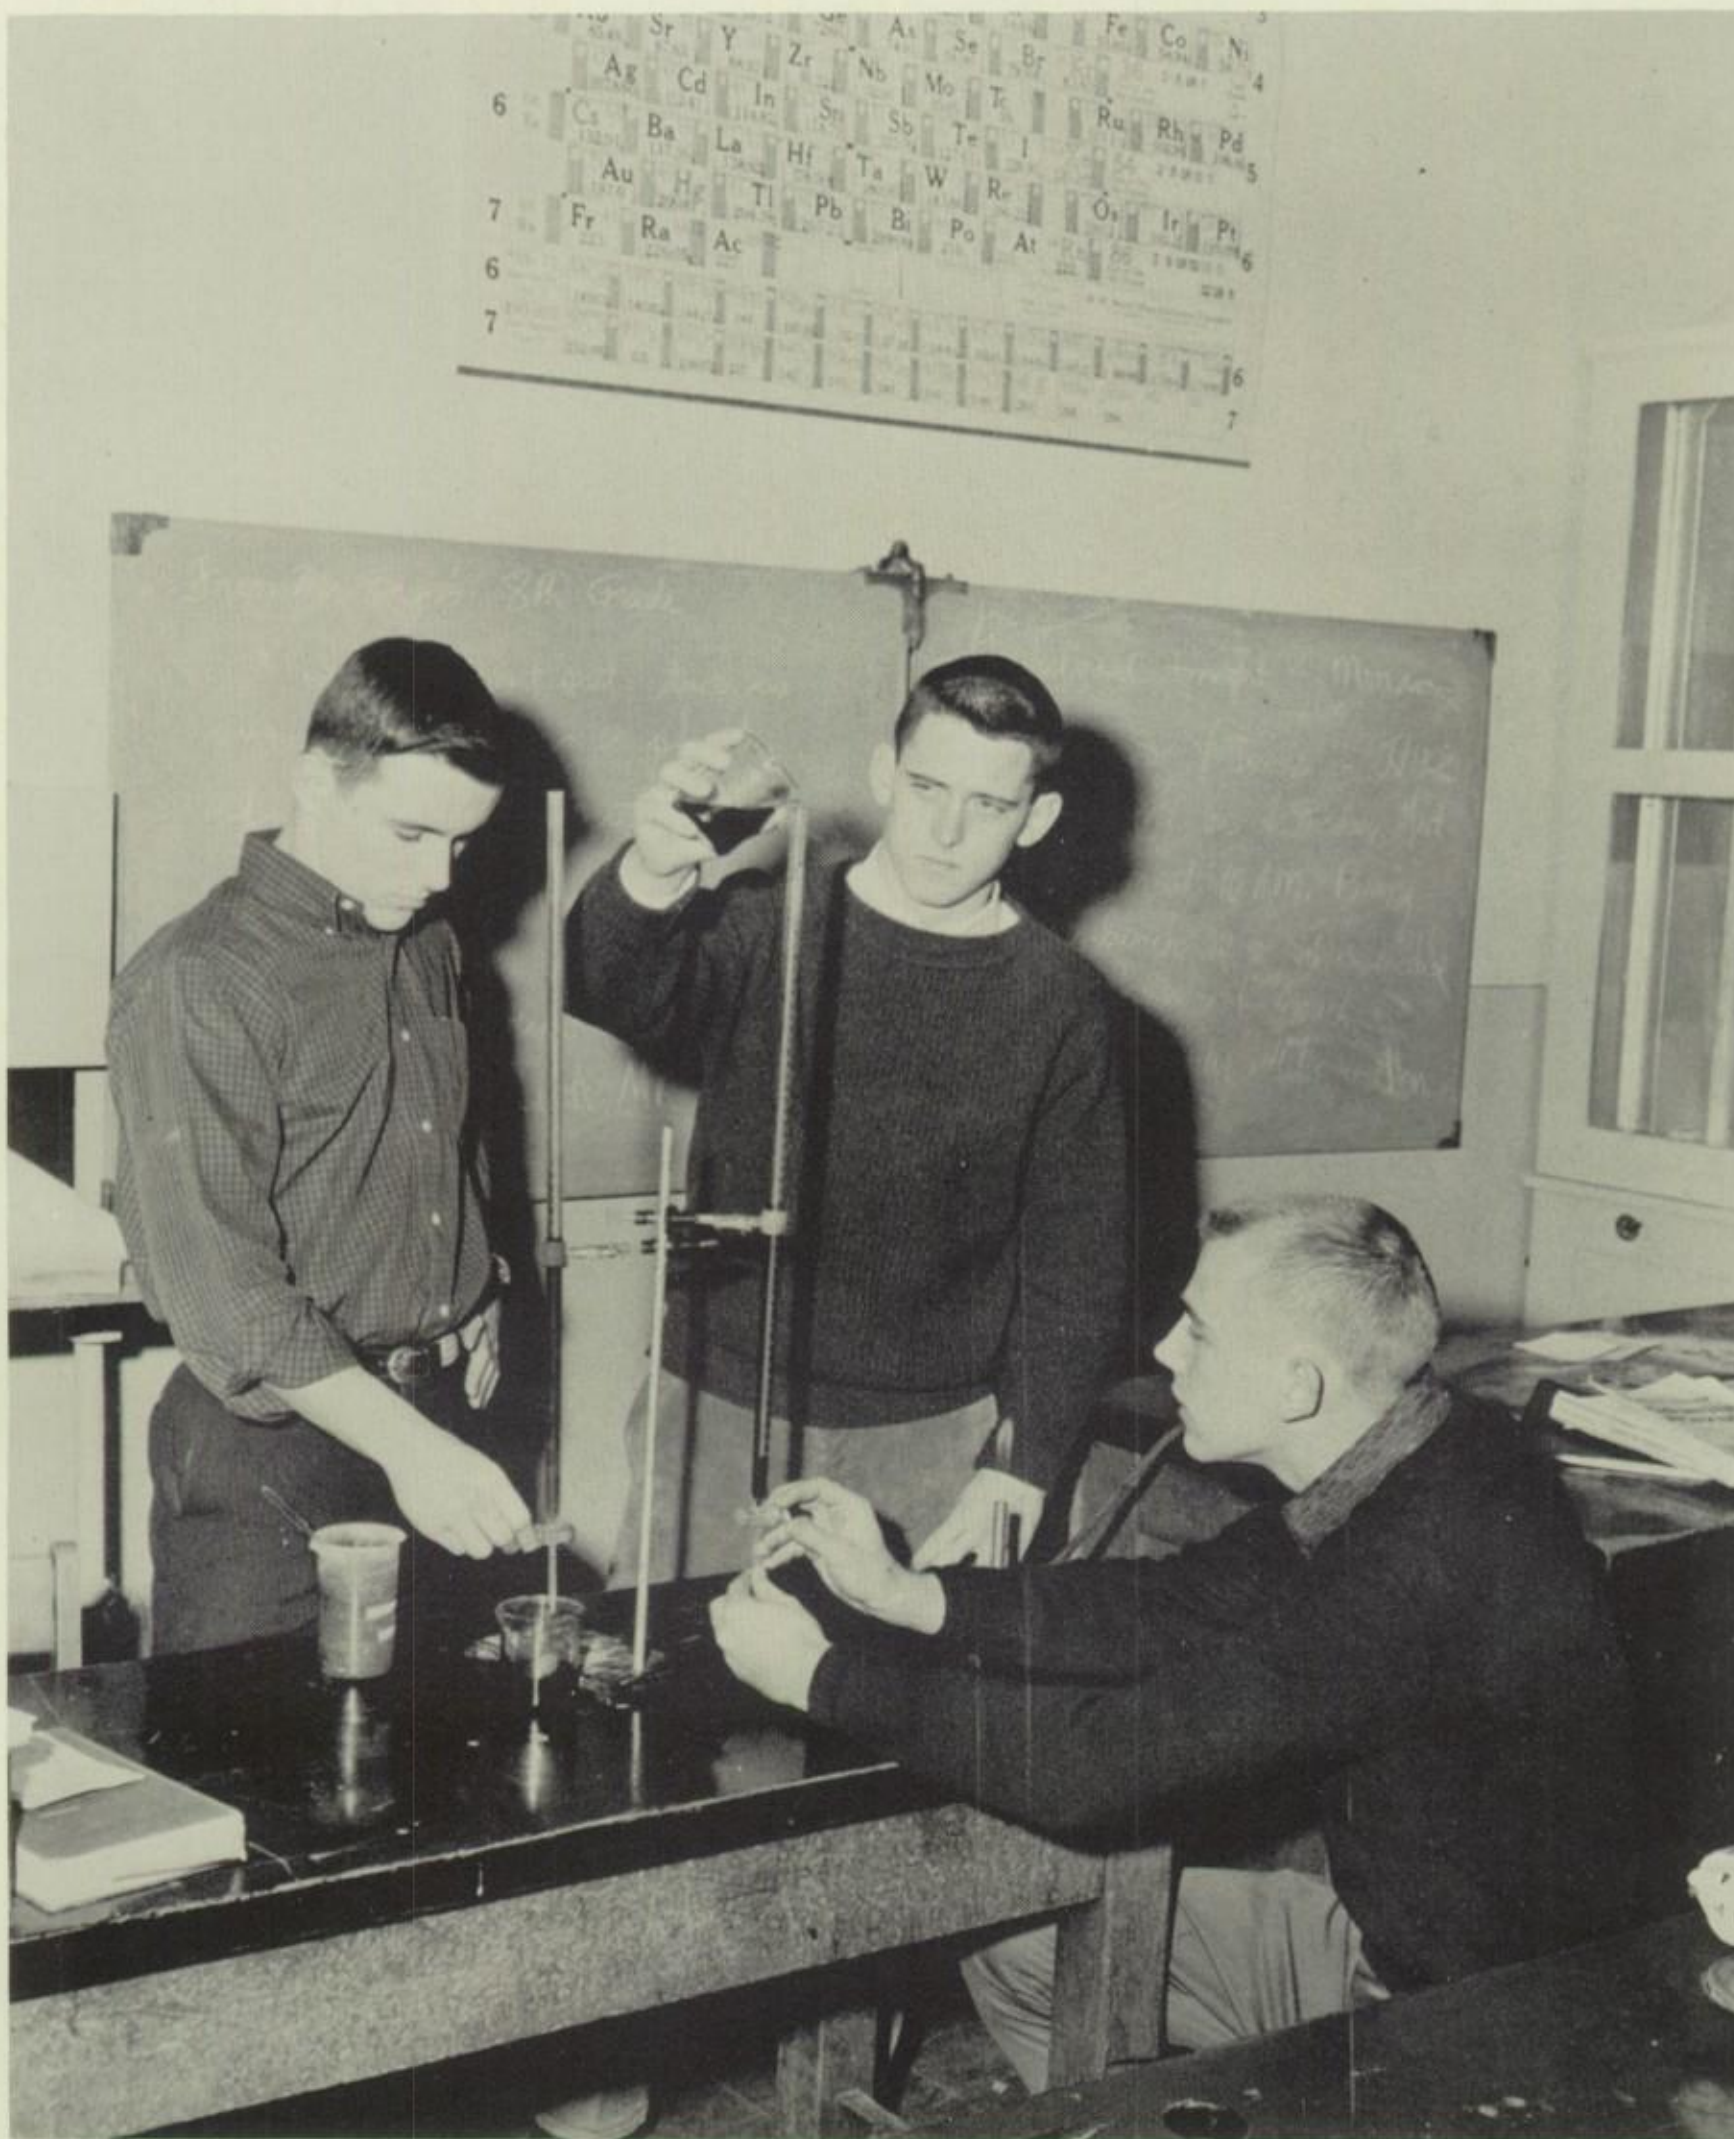

$$x = \frac{-b \pm \sqrt{b^2 - 4ac}}{2ac}$$

$$a^2 = b^2 + c^2 - 2bc \cos \theta$$

Gail Jamison works a problem in the eighth grade experimental algebra class.

MATHEMATICS

Jimmy Benson, Chuck Johnson, and Fred Hickam perform an experiment in chemistry.

Students Explore Physical World

Marsha Nance and JoAnn Dillard work on an experiment in an eighth grade science class.

General science, biology, chemistry, and physics form the bulwark of Fleming's science department. Of these, the first is designated for underclassmen, the second includes both introductory and advanced courses, and the third and fourth furnish upperclassmen with additional opportunities to broaden their scientific training.

SCIENCE

Sue Martin and Patricia Williams dissect fetal pig in advanced biology class.

National Problems Considered

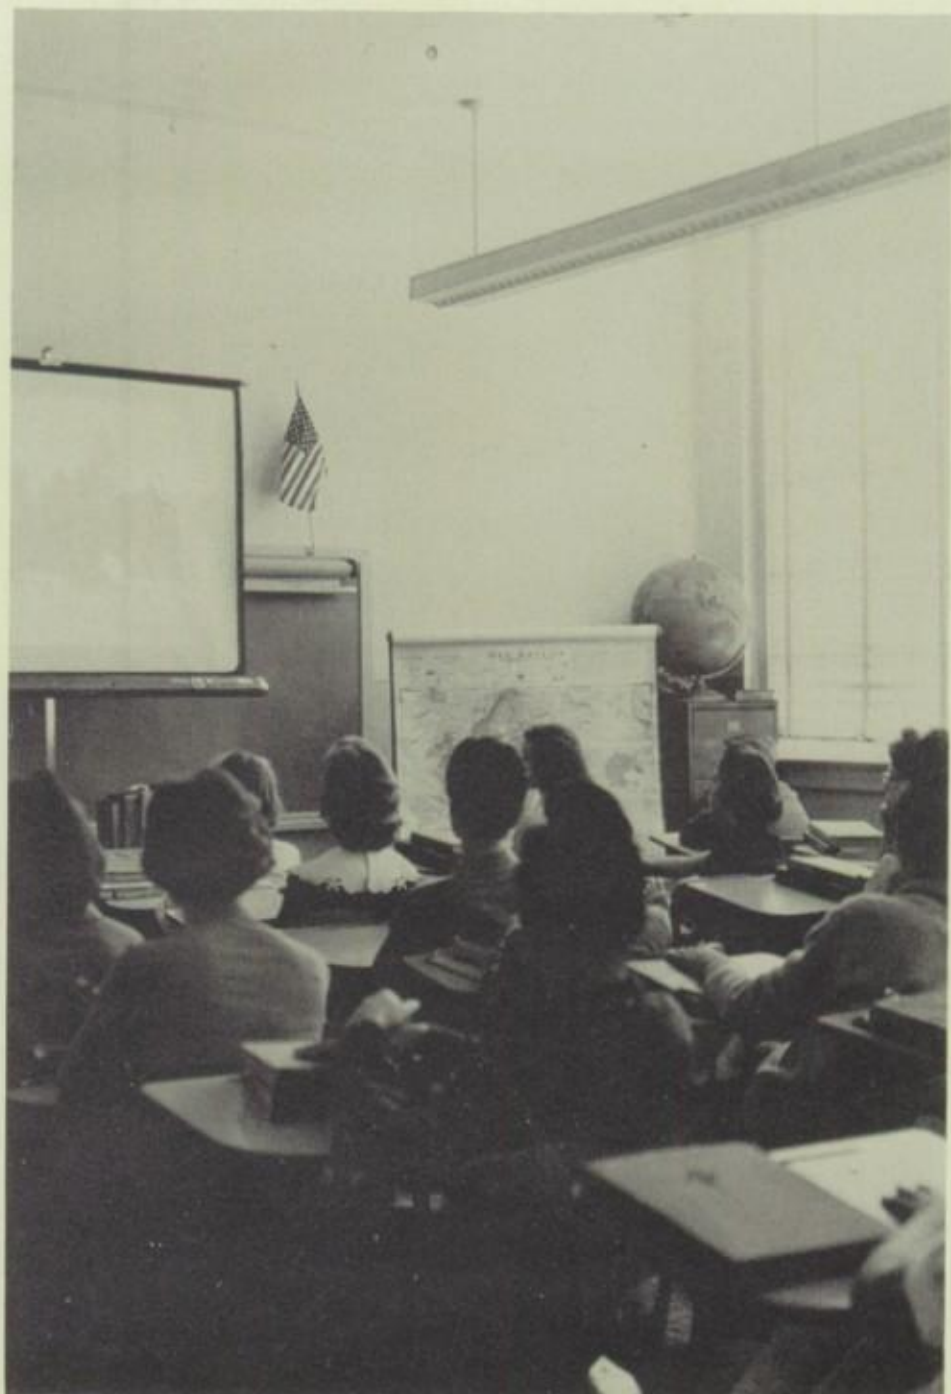

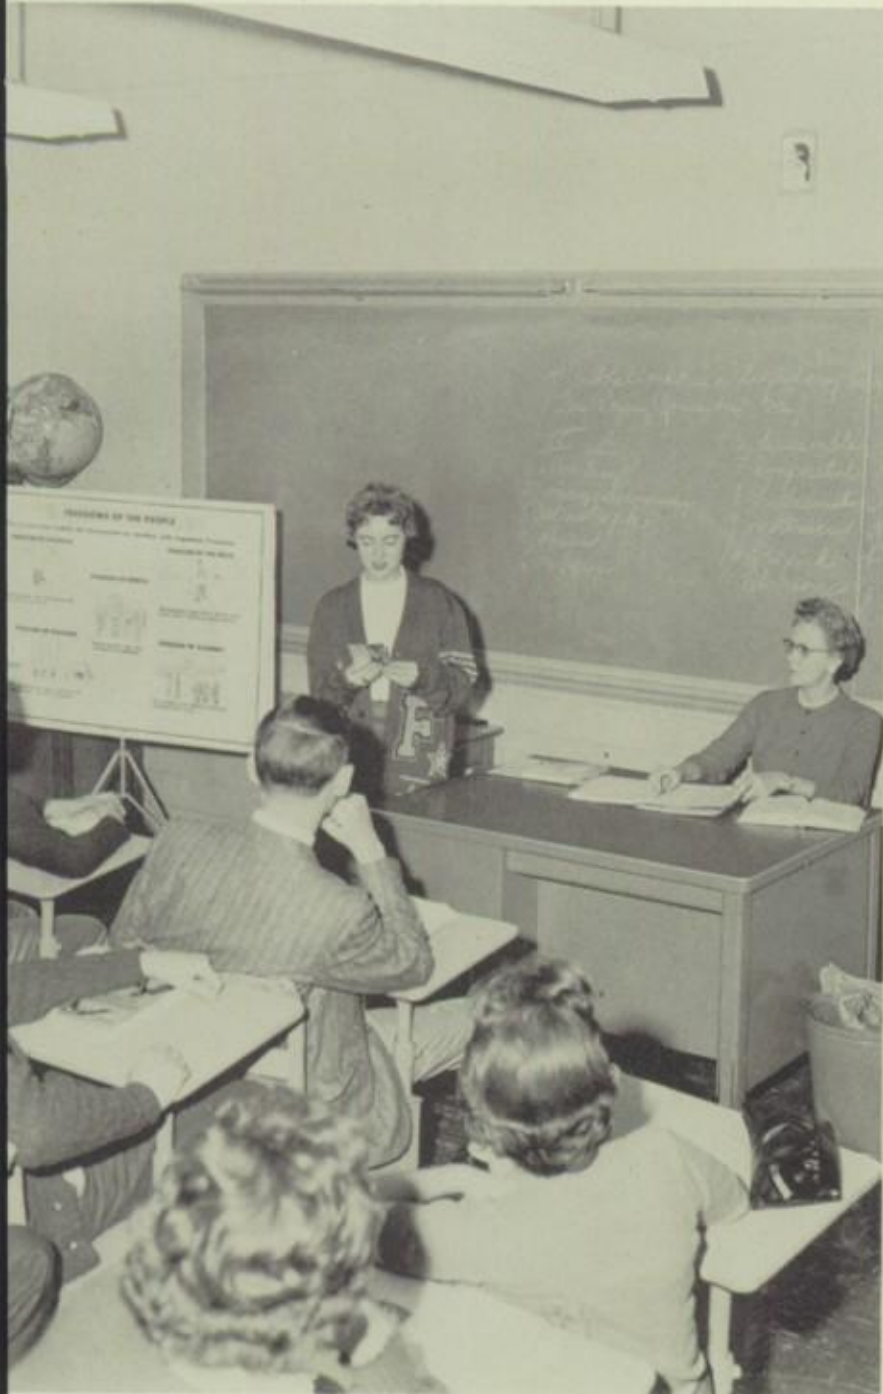

Miss Walton explains to her accelerated history class the importance of Virginia's location.

For students desirous of learning more about the problems and potentialities of the modern world, there are classes in world history, geography, American history, and government. Whether an elective or a requirement, each contributes toward the building of citizenship and the furtherance of civic pride.

Mrs. Odom and her accelerated government class listen attentively as Hollie Crouch gives her report.

Mrs. Quigley's social studies class watches the movie "The Forester".

SOCIAL STUDIES

Mr. Egge's advanced art class diligently at work on their projects.

Students Perfect Talents

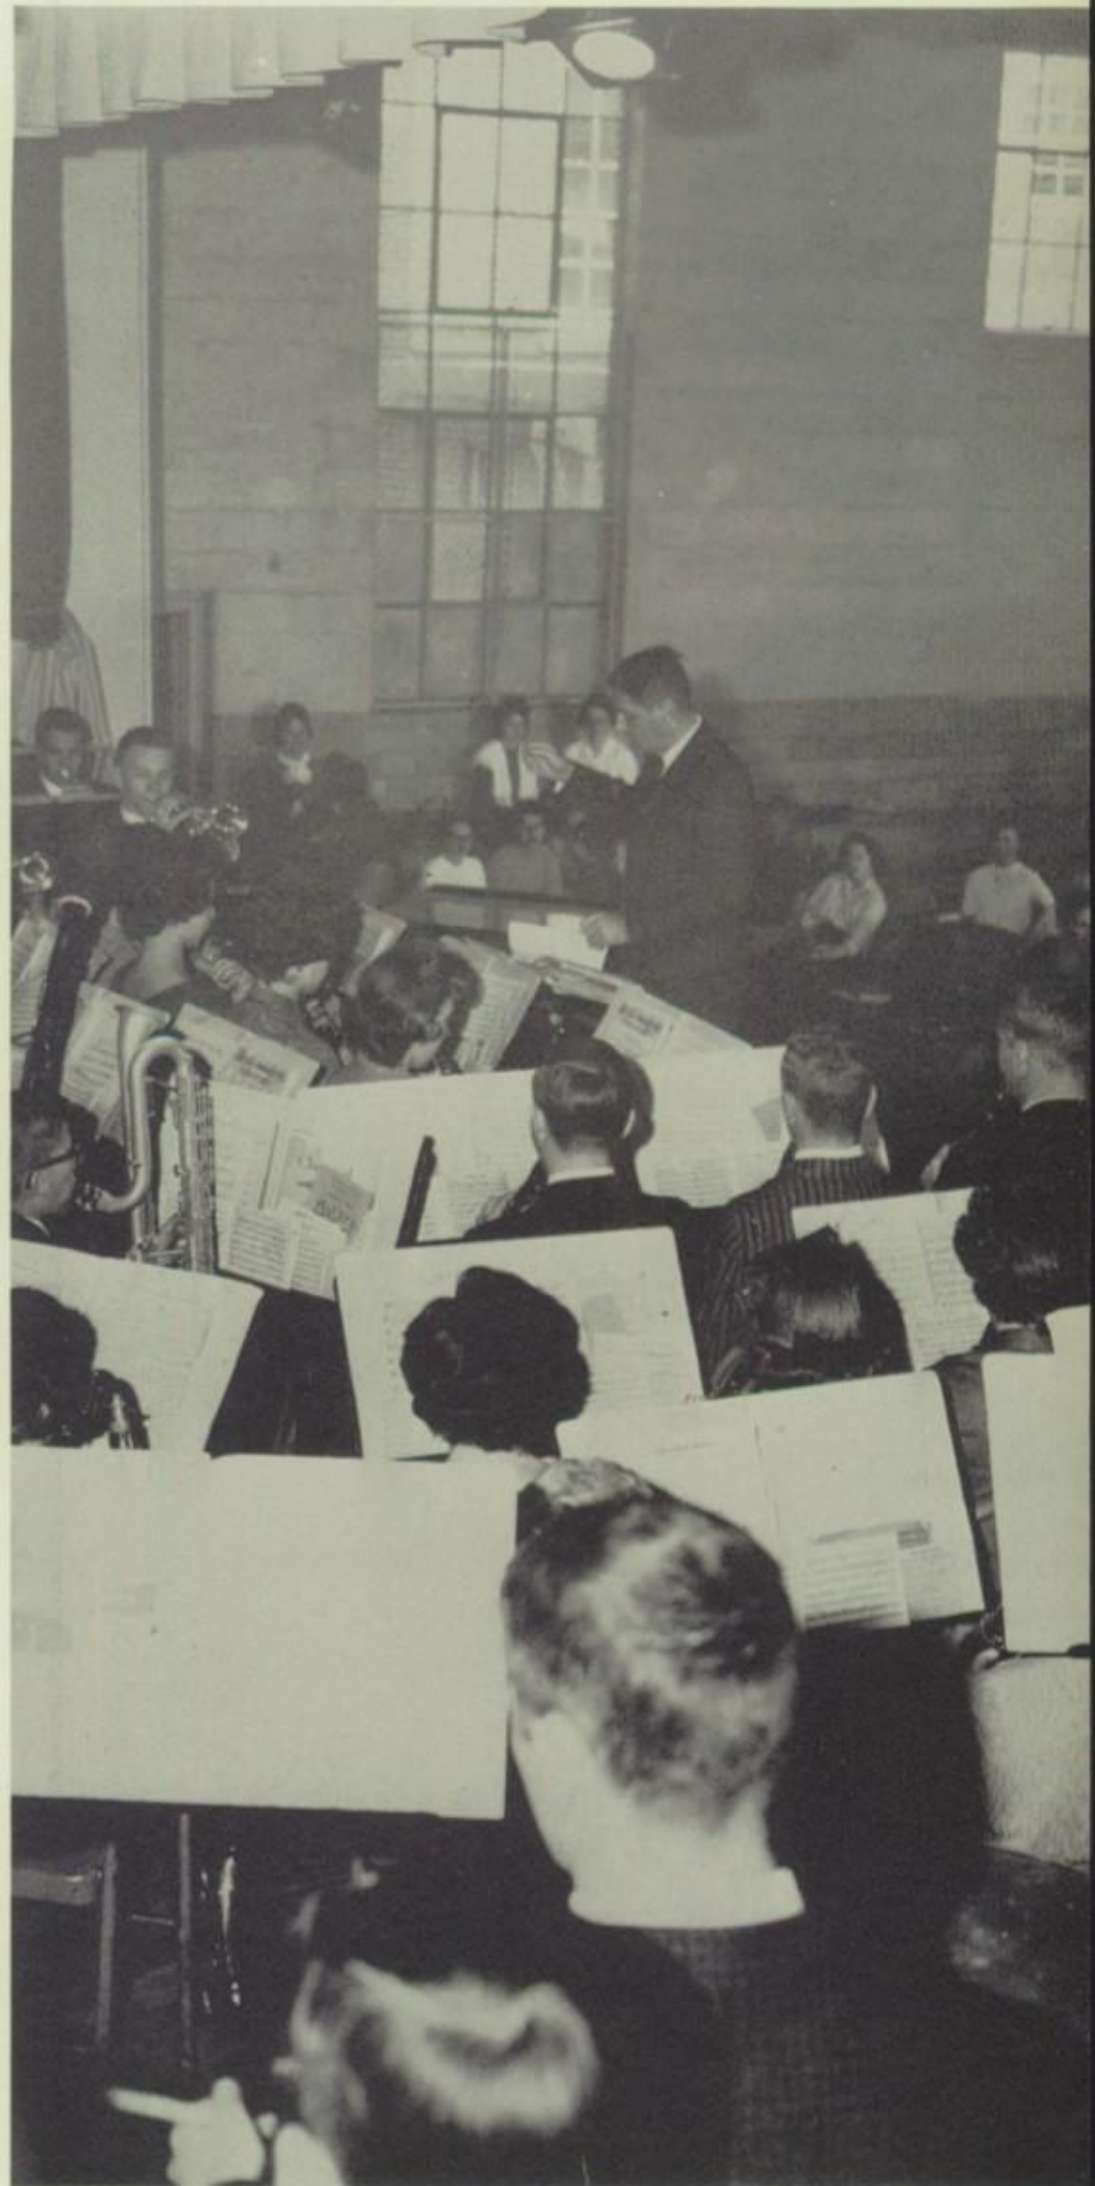

FINE ARTS

Fleming offers several courses for developing the creative talents born within us. The band member may fail to understand the art student's delicate painting, the drama student's powers of expression, or the choir member's rich vocal qualities, but each class provides valuable experience for interested students.

Mrs. Dickinson aids Elizabeth Collins in the use of the tape recorder as Connie Ennis, Joyce Montgomery, Buddy Decker, Tommy Newman, and Skip Carter wait their turn.

Band members rehearse for assembly concert.

Forrest Pinion's table is an example of the fine work done by industrial arts students.

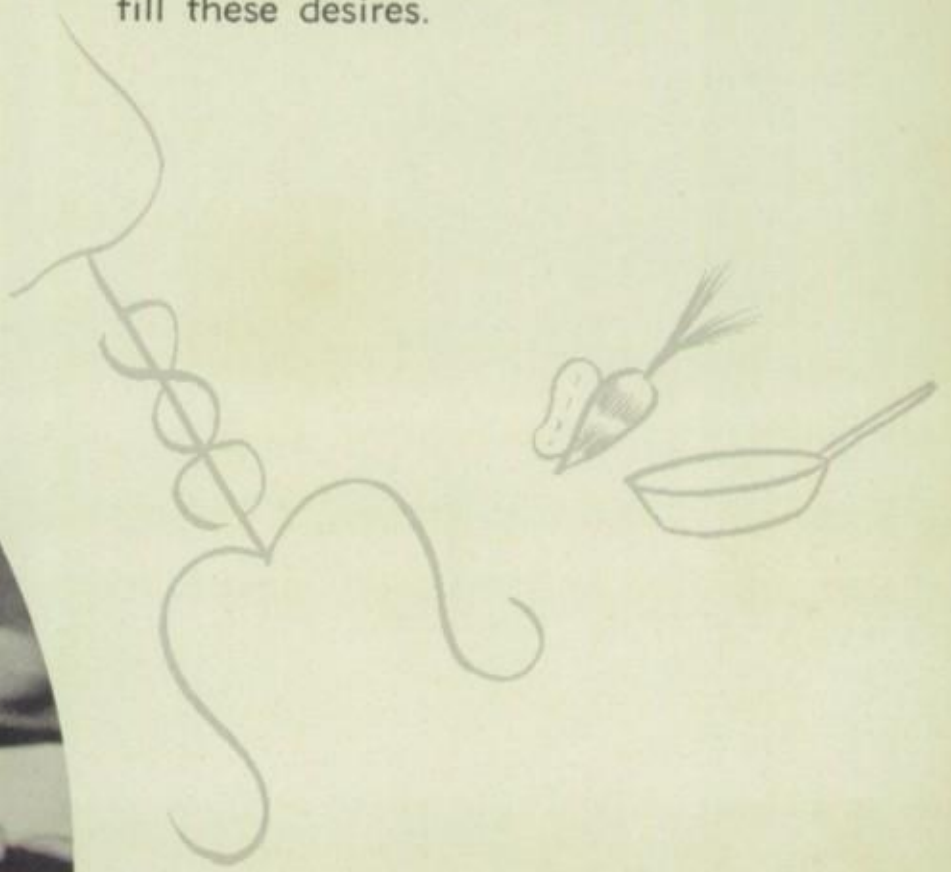

Future's Foundations Built

PRACTICAL ARTS

From earliest times people have desired both utility and beauty in their daily lives. Fleming's courses in the practical arts—home economics, industrial arts, and mechanical drawing—help the student to fulfill these desires.

Sammy Lane works on sketch in mechanical drawing.

Plans Laid Business Careers

Bonnie Bryant and Sandra Wright practice on business machines in V. O. T. class.

The clicking of typewriters, the pecking of machines in the V. O. T. office, and the rustling of pages in the would-be stenographer's pad are familiar sounds to Fleming business students. In addition to training with these important skills, specialized classes are conducted in business English, general business, and distributive education.

Larry Whitlock and Jimmy Saul work business math problems on board under Miss Bates' supervision.

BUSINESS

Sue Sutphin, Dotti Wells, and Larry Hill look on as Miss Stone checks their maps of France.

Courses in Latin, French, and Spanish provide those interested in languages with ample opportunity for study. While the Latin classes struggle through their first declensions, the French students practice idiomatic conversation and the Spanish students, aided by their native teacher, learn the speech of our Southern neighbors.

Languages Broaden Opportunities

Sylvia Patterson recites before Mrs. Patterson's first-year Spanish class.

Many Fleming students enjoy the "learn by doing" technique of driver training. Driver education in the classroom precedes the practical application behind the wheel.

Mr. French teaches Doug Williams, Sonny Ward, and Ann Overstreet fundamentals of driving.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Healthy Bodies Developed

Mr. Moore leads eighth grade boys in calisthenics.

To build young bodies and to develop sportsmanship are the aims of our physical education programs. Wrestling and football are part of the total program for the boys, while both boys and girls participate in basketball, softball, volleyball, and tumbling.

Giving counsel on future school or job plans, administering tests and interpreting their results, holding meetings for parents, and helping with personal problems are some of the tasks involved in the work done by the guidance department.

GUIDANCE

Counsel Given for Future Plans

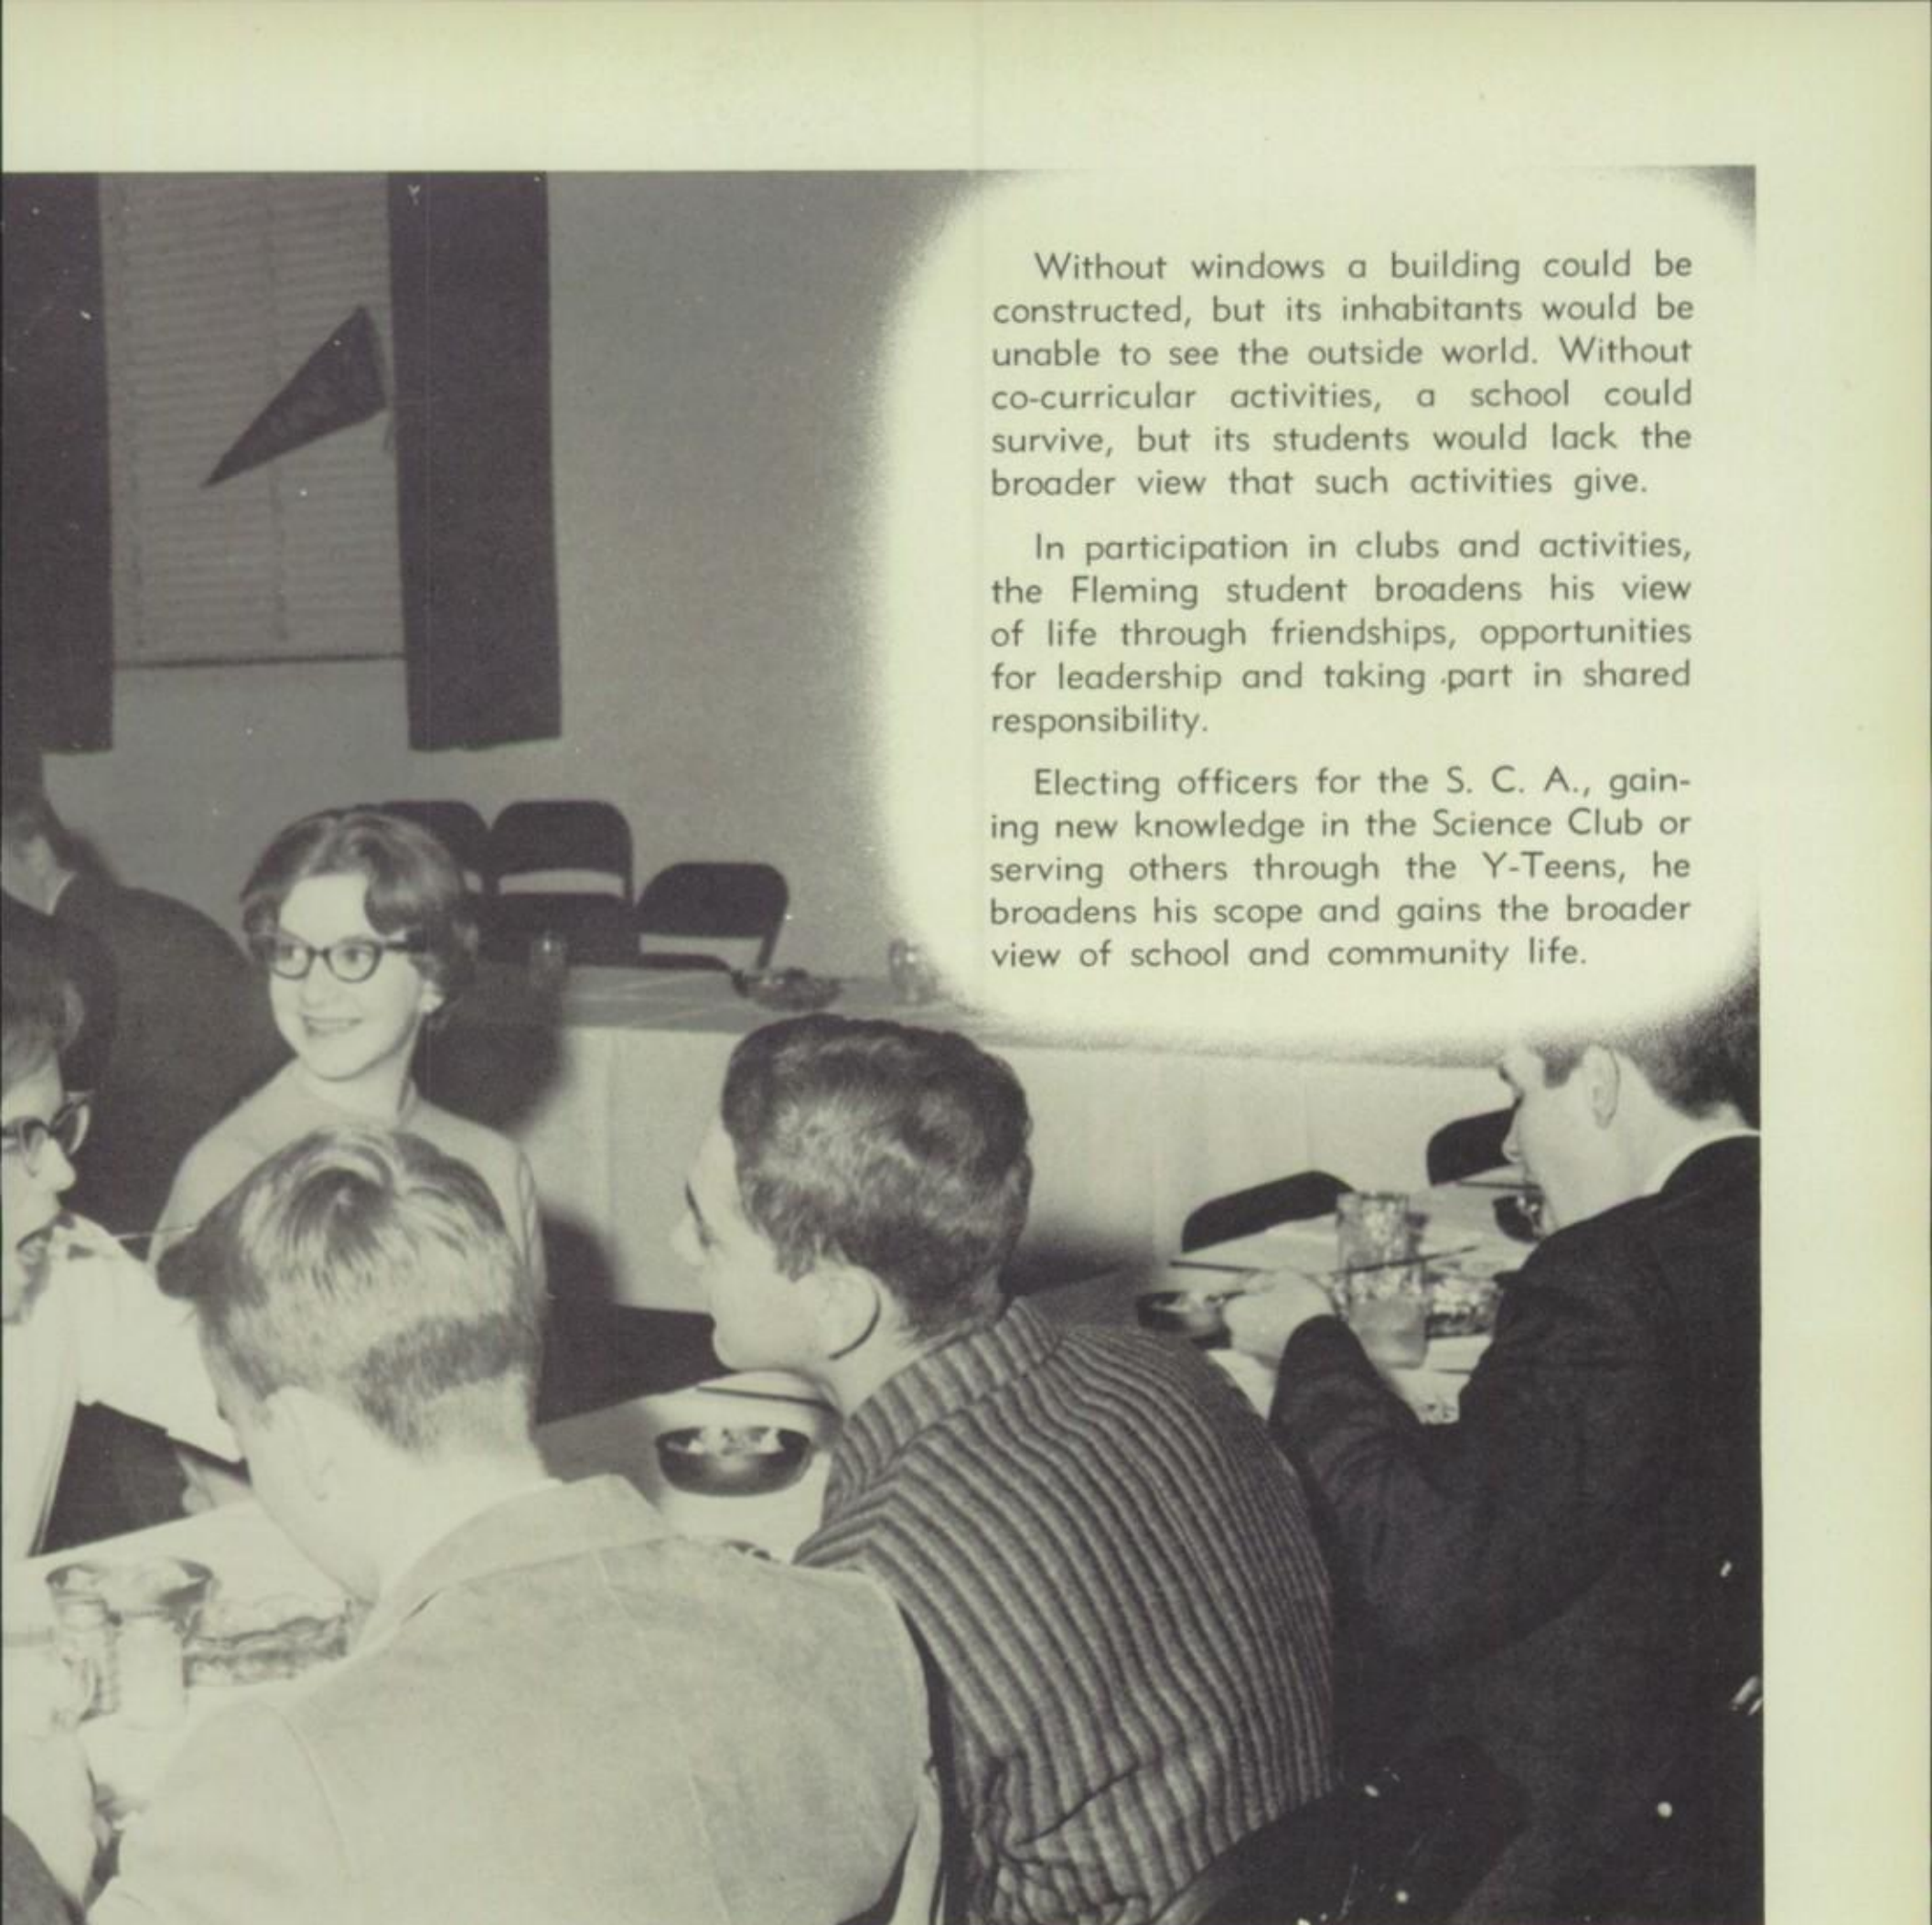

Members of Guidance Department, Mrs. Quigley, Mr. Philips, Miss Stone, and Mr. Graybill confer during a staff meeting.

CO-CURRICULAR

A black and white photograph showing a group of students seated at a long table. In the foreground, the back of a student's head is visible. To their right, a male student in a striped shirt is seen in profile, looking towards the right. Further down the table, a female student with glasses and short dark hair is smiling at the camera. Other students are partially visible in the background. On the wall behind them, a flag is hanging. The table is set with glasses and plates.

Without windows a building could be constructed, but its inhabitants would be unable to see the outside world. Without co-curricular activities, a school could survive, but its students would lack the broader view that such activities give.

In participation in clubs and activities, the Fleming student broadens his view of life through friendships, opportunities for leadership and taking part in shared responsibility.

Electing officers for the S. C. A., gaining new knowledge in the Science Club or serving others through the Y-Teens, he broadens his scope and gains the broader view of school and community life.

ACTIVITIES

Queen Bonnie Bryant was presented to student body in Homecoming assembly.

Gary Witt, Jimmy Wilson, Cynthia Weaver and Judy Kanode ride on one of the floats in Homecoming Parade.

HOMECOMING

Although the 1960 Homecoming officially opened with the bonfire Friday night, actual preparations, such as decorating floats and selecting the queen and her court, were begun weeks in advance. This year's parade, with fifteen units, marched through the streets Saturday morning, October 22, giving a fitting prelude to the exciting game with Danville that night. The Colonels downed their opponents 7-6, but, as evidenced by enthusiasm at the cheerleaders' hop, this narrow decision only enhanced our triumph.

Bonnie Bryant reigned over the 1960 Homecoming festivities.

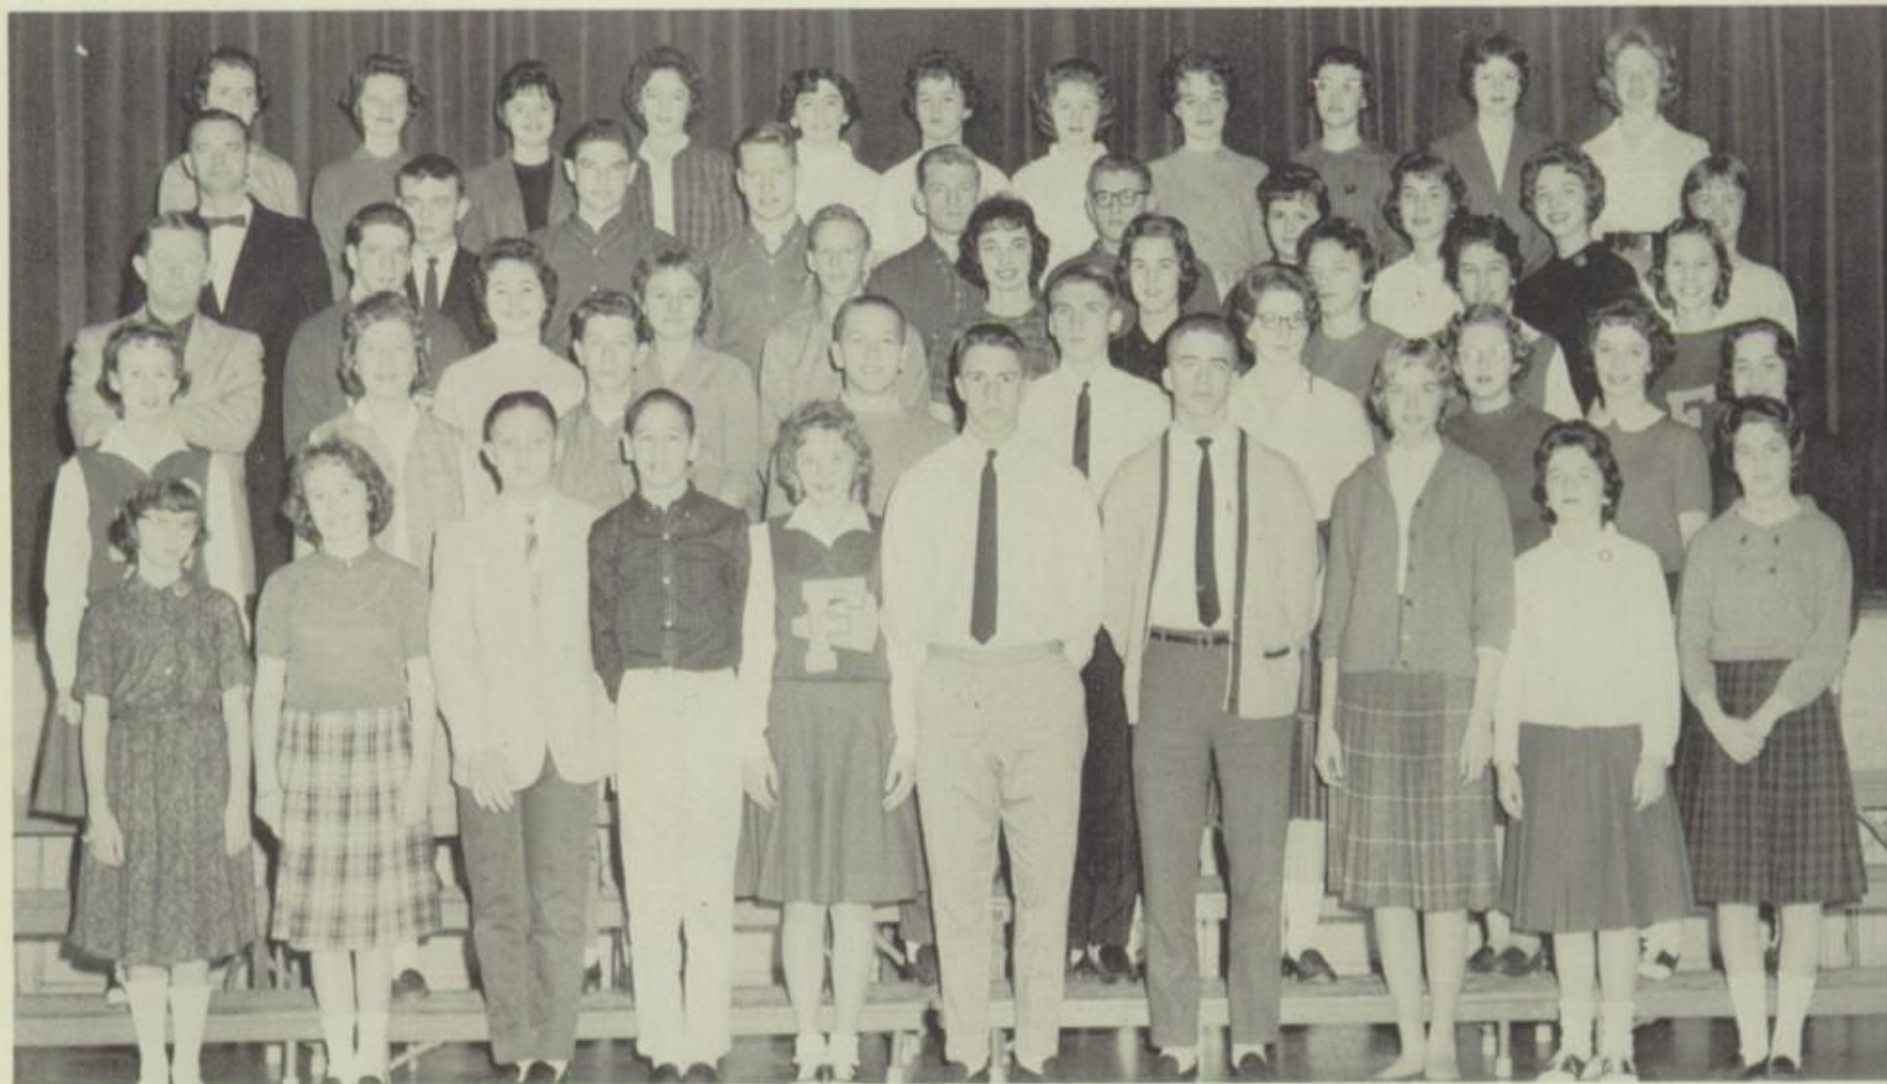

Bewildered eighth graders were grateful for the orientation program prepared for them as one of the several SCA projects for 1961. This, their initial undertaking, encouraged the members in their future activities—delivering Christmas baskets to needy families, planning the Spring Formal, and in general coordinating the school's clubs. Before their terms officially began, the officers, headed by President Ronnie Ayers, attended a statewide convention of the student association.

Honor Students Serve Fleming

Brandishing placards stamped "Meet Pete", excited Betas launched their campaign to elect Pete McArthur state president of Virginia's clubs. Once their venture had succeeded, they began the task of establishing William Byrd's Beta Club, thus achieving the status of "banner" society. Later in the year a student tutoring service was sponsored, programs were sold at home football games, and the annual banquet for installing new members was held in the Masonic temple.

Officers Wanda Old, Phyllis Fulk, and Pete McArthur join Mr. Coulter and Mrs. Sifford in opening the Beta Banquet.

"Socks, free socks, would someone wear free socks to school, three days a week?" shouted newspaper students who were trying to get an ad from the Adler Sock Company. This bi-monthly school paper sent representatives to the S. I. P. A. convention at Lexington and to the Richmond Newspaper convention. Its co-editors, Phyllis Fulk and Carolyn Hollar, carefully proof-read the paper before each printing.

Colonel Staff Records Year's Events

"Dummy", when used by one of the annual staff's eighteen members, generally referred to the original plan for the 1961 Colonel. Once the theme had been selected and approved by the sponsors, Miss Stone and Mr. Foster, it was the job of the layout department to prepare this detailed blueprint. Finally the writers and photographers took over, filling in the lines and figures with words and pictures, and scurrying to have their work approved.

Mr. Foster, sponsor, watches as Carolyn Hale, Wanda Old, and Ruth Ziegler plan layout for opening section of The Colonel.

Seniors Formally Given Rings

Fun, fellowship and the realization that dreams of graduating were beginning to come true characterized members of the senior class as they danced at the Senior Ring Dance. A local band, "The Nomads", provided the music. Led by the class president, Fred Horton, and his date, Deanna Martin, each senior received his class ring under the arch built by dance committeemen.

The majorettes for 1960-61 are Julia Bray, Phyllis Flick, Martha Perry, Linda Crouch, Ellen Stanley, Brenda Saul, Becky Hancock, Carolyn Ward, Charlotte Carter, and Head Majorette Deanna Martin.

With sparkling smiles and heads held high, the Majorettes marched in parades and football games, proud to lead the band. Sponsored by Mrs. Walden and Mrs. J. C. Bradley, these high-stepping girls raised money for uniforms and accessories by having bake sales and rummage sales. Sliding through ankle-deep mud, the Majorettes captured the top award at the Southeastern Band Festival at Bristol, Virginia in October.

With the addition of a new color guard our band was in tip-top shape. In Bristol at the Southeastern Band Festival it won its third consecutive superior rating, an honor not attained by any other band in this area. Throughout the numerous parades and conventions of the football season the band was ready to supply the public with good music. Concert-wise there were the Christmas Program at Melrose Baptist Church and the Pop Concert in the spring. Nor was All-State deprived of our representatives, for we sent eighteen persons, a number exceeded by only one other band in the State.

"I Could Have Danced All Night". That's the way one feels when the Fleming Dance Band strikes up the music. Dancers Enjoy "Winter Wonderland"

With music supplied by the "Divots", the Christmas Dance seemed like a dream come true to the pretty Queen, Trish Williams. This year the Queen and her court

Hi-Y Boys Add Humor to Parades...

Senior Hi-Y members appeared in various costumes this year. Dressed as clowns they added humor to the Harvest and the Christmas parades; the club's basketball team wore gym suits during games, their entry in the model general assembly drilled in uniforms, and dress suits were worn at the Christmas Dance with the Y-Teens. The twin organizations also cooperated for an assembly and dinner meetings.

Y-Teens Promote Understanding...

Endeavoring to develop the spiritual, physical, social and economic interests of its members, the Senior Y-Teens had a very active year. Hoping to promote international understanding, the club corresponded with one in France, and sponsored many projects to benefit the needy in our community. For recreation the club held several suppers, slumber parties and outings. Trish Williams was chosen Holly Queen at the annual Christmas Dance sponsored by the Hi-Y and Y-Teens.

Participate in YWCA Candy Sale...

Candy of various descriptions could be seen in the hands of each tenth grade Y-Teener as she helped the club sell its supply. The profits were used to finance their main project which this year included helping a needy family and sending delegates to the State Convention. The club also participated in the annual March of Dimes Campaign and provided housing for out-of-town delegates who visited in Roanoke.

And Co-Sponsor Christmas Dance

One of the chief projects for the 8th and 9th grade Y-Teen Club was serving refreshments and maintaining a coat check at the Christmas Dance. They also took part in projects sponsored by the Central YWCA such as the March of Dimes Campaign and Candy Sale. The program for the February Meeting of all four Y-Teen Clubs was sponsored by the 8th and 9th grade club.

Thespians...

With the induction of twenty-two new members the William Fleming Thespians, Troupe 570 began their new year. Their first endeavor of the year was Stardust, a comedy-fantasy played before two full houses. For the third year Richard Henninger portrayed Dismas in the annual Christmas play "A Child Is Born". "A Tale of Chelm" from The World of Sholom Aleichem was chosen for Festival Play.

The highlight of the year was the "Snow Ball", a formal dance held in January.

Bobby Thacker as "Phil" and Mary Ann Parks as "Janet" argue in scene from fall play Stardust.

R. Vest, M. Ridenhour, B. Miller, N. Walters, D. Stoner, N. Reynolds perform to the disgust of J. Phlegar in another Stardust scene.

Jimmy Phlegar interrupts tender scene between Richard Henninger and Margaret Morton in Stardust.

Bobby Thacker writes a letter to his mother in scene from the drama department's Veterans' Day Assembly.

In addition to opening these areas for the first time, the club also enjoyed the largest membership on record and set a new standard by honoring eight members with blazers, the club's highest honor.

Future Teachers Learn By Doing

Visitors to Fleming may have been surprised to find students in charge of classes, but such an occurrence was not rare when the F.T.A. undertook its program for providing members with actual experience. When not occupied in teaching, the girls found time to usher at P.T.A. meetings, serve refreshments at faculty meetings, and prepare programs honoring teachers during American Education Week.

Following the precedent set by the senior club, the Junior F. H. A. worked for an improved May Day program by sponsoring money-raising projects and carefully rehearsing their dancers.

Before school opened the F. B. L. A. held a rummage sale and bake sale to raise funds to send representatives to the State F. B. L. A. convention in Richmond. Business meetings were held monthly at school, and in early spring the club sponsored lectures on business education and careers with prominent area businessmen as speakers.

D.E. Gives Practical Experience

Although a new organization at Fleming, the Distributive Education Club has already proved its worth. Junior Brown and Doris Sweeney were district winners in professional selling and ad layout copy, and last spring Eddie Higginbotham and Donnie Hales won first place in the state in ad layout and professional selling, respectively. The club also aided the Roanoke Merchants Association in conducting a poll of Roanoke shoppers in order to improve Roanoke's shopping conditions.

Artists Paint Mural For Library....

Every visitor and student to Fleming has paused to enjoy the exhibits of our Art Club. Photography, modern art and a special Christmas display were but a few of the exhibits that graced our bulletin boards and halls. Members of the club also journeyed to the Skyline Drive to make sketches, planning as a future project a group of landscapes to be painted for the school library.

Establishing a new point system started the year for the Junior Art Club. Each member who earned two hundred points received pins shaped like a pallet. By earning additional points, members added colors to go on their pins. Meetings were devoted to looking at slides and discussing their art projects.

Trustworthy girls with good grades may be given an opportunity to work in the school office. As "little helpers" they are often requested to do almost anything from selling school supplies to delivering raincoats, boots, or lunches to forgetful students.

Dance Heralds Arrival Of Spring

"While We're Young" was the theme of 1961's Spring Formal, sponsored by the S.C.A. The couples danced dreamily as the music of "The Divots" echoed through the Fleming gym at the March dance.

"Shortcuts to Math", a lecture by Dr. Paul Baird, began the Science Club's program, which was designed to keep all members informed of recent developments in the various scientific fields. In addition to lectures, this goal was obtained through group observation and field trips, carefully selected by the sponsor, Mrs. Horton, to stimulate interest in the Science Fair.

Bible Club Compares Religions

In an effort to make their membership in the voice of Christian Youth of real significance, the members participated in such activities as singing Christmas carols to shut-ins. During the year the group heard outside speakers who gave to the members a broader understanding of the Bible and presented to them the different interpretations placed upon certain Biblical passages by various religious sects.

Peggy Warren studies the interpretation of a passage from the Revised Standard Version of the Bible.

Building In Skill And Character Through...

In no department of the school are character and sportsmanship more necessary than in the field of athletics. As many people judge a building by its outward appearance, so do many judge a school by its team sports.

Fleming's fine athletic department has over the years brought the school into the spotlight. The student body as a whole feels a strong loyalty to its teams and gives them needed support, whether the season be a winning or losing one. This offers fitting proof that we judge their success not by the number of their victories but by the sincerity of their efforts.

Fleming 7 George Washington 6

Pictured is David Wall (66) scoring the decisive extra point as Hooker (49), Marley (23), and Jones (39) pursue in vain.

Fleming 27

EIGHTH GRADE FOOTBALL

The Baby Colonels finished the season with a 4-4 record. The eighth grade team showed its power by defeating Cave Spring twice 42-7 and 37-6. The fundamentals the team learned this past season will carry them through the rest of their high school football days. They learned the value of winning as well as sportsmanship.

Mike Patterson gets one of the many pins which enabled him to finish the season undefeated.

Coach French, who became wrestling coach in 1955, has proved himself an outstanding coach in this area. This year's team posted a fine record of eight wins and three loses. Mike Patterson, Ellsworth Snyder, and Edgar Knowling remained undefeated during the season. Wrestling is becoming a popular sport throughout the state. Twenty-two teams participated in the State Wrestling Tournament held at Princess Anne High School, Norfolk, Virginia. Knowling finished fourth in his weight class at this meet. Finishing their last season of wrestling were Bobby Osborne, Richard Vest, Ellsworth Snyder, Mike Patterson, Edgar Knowling, and John Woolwine.

Edgar Knowling, undefeated in the 157-pound class, drives for a take-down on his St. Christopher opponent.

Jackie Hurd hurls a strike for Fleming.

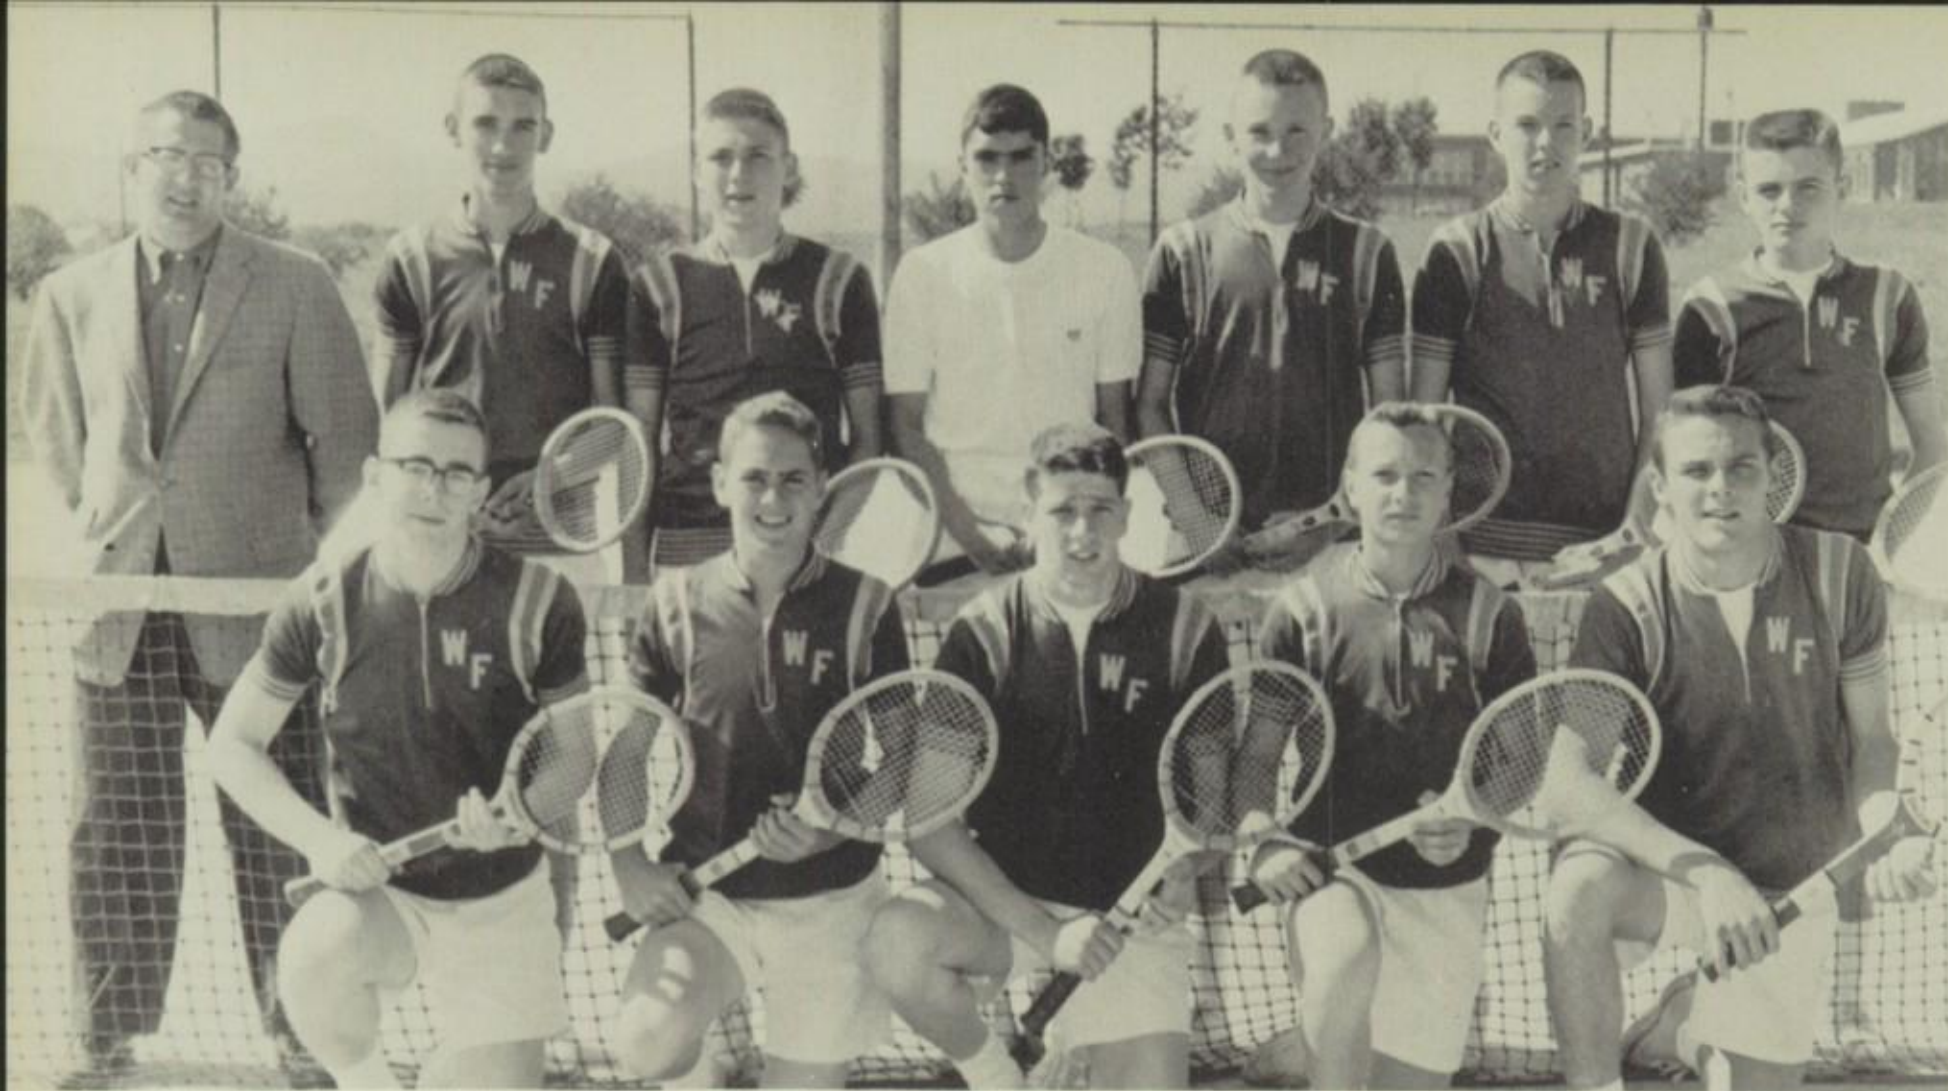

Jackie Hurd pitches to Billy Wilson at first for a put-out.

In only two years of varsity baseball, William Fleming's team has proved itself to be an outstanding figure in its district. Coach Dan Wooldridge's boys finished the 1960 season with a 9-9 record. The co-captains for the year were Joe Bush and Duke Hales. The outstanding game of the season was a 4 to 1 victory over a powerful Jefferson team.

Joe Bush takes his turn at the plate. Coaching first base is Doug Pence.

Tennis Gains Popularity

Though tennis is a new sport at William Fleming, the tennis team managed to win two matches during the 1959-60 season. With the completion of the new high school, tennis should become a more popular sport and strong teams should develop in future years. The team was coached by Mr. Jimmy Thompson last season.

Ralph Rood practices his serve.

Captain Frank Brown has Coach Jimmy Thompson inspect his racket.

These five seniors gained outstanding athletic honors this year at Fleming: John LeNoir, All City-County and All Western District halfback in football; Mike Patterson, undefeated wrestler in 147-pound class; Ellsworth Snyder, undefeated in 130-pound class; Edgar Knowling, undefeated in 156-pound class and fourth in state tournament; and Joe Bush, All City-County and All Western District end in football. NOT PICTURED: C. B. Sink, All City-County and All Western District in basketball, Western District leading scorer.

Fleming's coaches stand before the symbol of our athletic achievements—the trophy case: Mr. Kenneth French, wrestling, football line coach; Mr. James Moore, varsity basketball, football back coach, cross-country; Mr. Fred Smith, athletic director, head football coach, track; Mr. Dan Wooldridge, junior high basketball, varsity baseball; and Mr. John Melone, junior varsity basketball, junior high baseball.

Sports Highlights

Another year of sports is at an end at Fleming. It seems only a short time ago that we smelled the aroma of hot dogs at a football game, heard the whistle blow at the end of a basketball game, and joined the cheers sent forth during a wrestling match. Since this is the last year of sports at the old Fleming building, every team that wore the blue and gold this season did its best to leave the school with an outstanding record. The football team, which was labeled at the first of the year as young and inexperienced, showed its determination by finishing the season with a 6-3-1 record. The basketball team had its ups and downs, but in one game broke three school records. The wrestling team compiled a winning record for the eighth consecutive year. Though the youngest of the teams, baseball continued to be a strong contender in the western district. Whatever the contest, the Fleming tradition of good sportsmanship was upheld throughout the year.

The fans get into the act as they come to their feet during an exciting wrestling match.

Cheering for school activities was not all these girls did, however. For the second straight year they cheered for V. M. I. in the Shrine Bowl Game.

They may not have had the largest crowds at their basketball games, but they yelled loud enough to cheer the freshman team on to first place in the City-County.

Girls Participate In Varied Sports ...

In addition to the interscholastic sports, volleyball and basketball, Fleming girls participated in intramural sports, including softball, bowling, ping pong and badminton. A tumbling show was given as the girls introduced new and different ideas in sports.

Early in the fall, a ping pong tournament was held. The girls participating received points for all games played.

Softball, though not a new sport, returned this year for the more energetic enthusiasts. Every afternoon in good weather the girls were on the diamond slamming out homers and sliding into bases. Three teams were chosen to accommodate girls on three schedules.

An old standby, bowling was a big success this year, with more than 20 teams of five to eight girls apiece. Ten pins were used for the first time this year, and professional assistance was given to all bowlers on a special bowling clinic day. Technique and skill were much improved by the end of the season.

Badminton became a new indoor sport for the girls as the year grew short. A badminton tournament was held in the gym and girls from all grades participated in this fast moving game.

These Are The Architects...

To draw the plans by which we build—this is the purpose of the faculty, a purpose which demands much dedication, judgment, and understanding, but which has as its reward the knowledge of having participated in the making of tomorrow. However, unlike the men who devise the blueprints for a new structure, these craftsmen can seldom hope to see the finished product, the final result of their labor. Still they go on planning, confident that they are in reality architects of the future.

We Are The Builders...

We are the students, the builders of a better tomorrow. Not wholly satisfied with our achievements, sometimes disappointed in what we have accomplished, we strive to better ourselves, using the tools that have been provided for us in our classes, our activities, and our athletics.

We know that we do not complete the building of our lives with the completion of our formal education. But through this education we have come to the realization that,

"Each is given a bag of tools
A shapeless mass,
A book of rules;
And each must make
Ere life is flown
A stumbling block
Or a stepping stone."

THE STUDENTS

Class Of '61 Has Busy Year

Senior boys Tom Ferguson, Larry Hulvey, Fred Hickam, and James Coon are crowded into Paul Robinson's Volkswagen in preparation for Senior Day.

Those who expected their final year to be free from work suffered a mild shock during the opening weeks of school. Added to regular classes were the problems of taking college entrance examinations, filling out miles of entrance applications, and surviving interviews for scholarships or summer jobs.

Yet being a senior has certain advantages. The excitement of exchanging calling cards, rehearsing the senior assembly, preparing for the banquet, and addressing announcements lasts for only one brief year. For the seniors of 1961 the period from September to June seemed even shorter, for to them fell the distinction of being the last class to graduate from the present William Fleming High School.

Fleming's Teen Model at Miller and Rhoads, Carolyn Riley, gives a preview of her prom dress.

Seniors anxiously wait for the remainder of the student body to be seated so the assembly can start.

Mrs. Odom, senior sponsor, holds a meeting with class officers Tom Ferguson (Secretary-Treasurer), Judy Austin (Historian), and Fred Horton (President). Not pictured is Bobby Thacker (Vice-President).

Joan Magness and Jimmy Woody pay class dues to Cathy Brown, vice-president of the Junior Class.

Reaching an important phase in their education, the Junior Class attacked with diligence the subjects prescribed for them. Combined with the usual studies in English and American history were new experiences with the modern innovation of "programmed" texts. Deciding on money-making projects and printed invitations for seniors, they began early in the year to plan for the prom, their major social activity of the year.

THE BRIDGE BUILDER

An old man traveling on a lone highway
Came at the evening cold and gray,
To a chasm vast and deep and wide,
Through which was flowing a sullen tide.
The old man crossed in the twilight dim,
The sullen stream held no fears for him;
But he turned when safe on the other side,
And builded a bridge to span the tide.

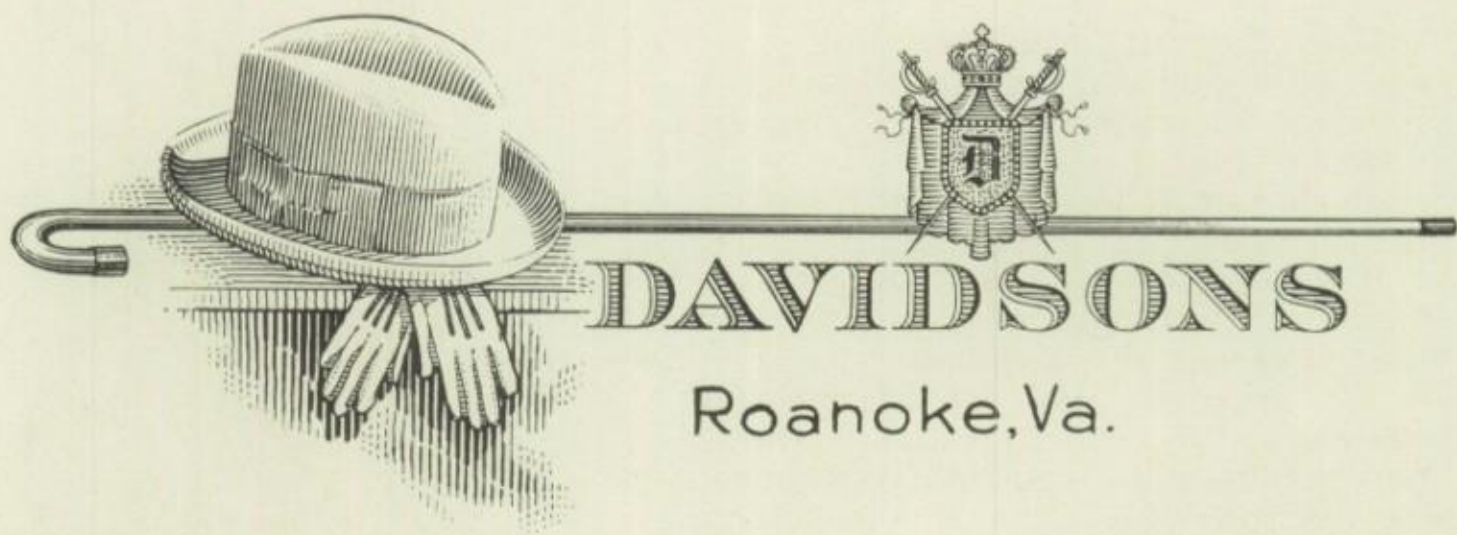

"Old man", cried a fellow pilgrim near,
"You're wasting your time in building here.
Your journey will end with the closing day;
You have crossed the chasm deep and wide,
Why build you this bridge at even-tide?"

The builder lifted his old gray head:
"Good friend, in the path I have come,"
he said,

"There followeth after me today
A youth whose feet must pass this way.
This stream which has been as naught to me,
To that fair-haired youth may pitfall be,
He, too, must cross in the twilight dim—
Good friend, I am building this bridge for him."

OUR Ever-Present CHALLENGE

The prosperity and individual freedoms we enjoy today are hard-earned gifts from our forefathers and must never be taken for granted.

Each new generation must stand on its own feet and preserve these freedoms.

The freedoms we enjoy through the American Way have a high price and must be earned over and over.

W. Somerset Maugham expresses it this way: "If a nation values anything more than freedom, it will lose its freedom; and the irony of it is that if it is comfort or money that it values more, it will lose that, too."
